

CREEK LEAKS

All the news that's print to fit

• AUGUST 1980 •

Volume 6, #8, Take #4

• GIGS •

- Aug. 1, 2nd MAD MURPHY'S
Hartford, Ct.
- 3, 17, 24th GREAT AMERICAN
MUSIC HALL ^{New Haven}
- 6th (tent) LAKE SHORE HOTEL
North Bay, N.Y.
- 7, 8, 9th MASON JAR
Mendon, N.Y.
- 10th BELLE STARR
Glenwood, N.Y.
- 14th COUNTRY SQUIRE
Ellington, Ct.
- 15, 16th INN PLACE
Simsbury, Ct.
- 22nd MARLBOROUGH
BEERFEST ^{Mart-borough}
- 23rd SHABOO INN
Willimantic, Ct.
- 25th SILVER SANDS
Milford, Ct.
- 29, 30th CARRY NATIONS
Manchester, Ct.

(name)

(Address)

(city)

(state)

(zip)

• WHERE IS THE ALBUM? •

A distant complex of machines... beyond the realm of sight and sound... devouring information and spewing forth countless clones into the infinite... expectation leads to consternation... Max Creek, a small, but fanatical band of musical mutants... thought they could release an album by mid-June... little did they know, they were entering... the Twilight Zone. Indeed.

In reality... actually the above is very close. The album material is at the pressors now. The delay seems to evolve during the checkpoints in reproducing the record and cover; that is, getting it right (ie., aquamarine blue is apparently not the same everywhere in the cosmos). In any event, if all goes well, we're expecting the album to be available in the beginning of September. Details to follow.

Use space at left to add your name to mailing list (or change address).

• EDITORIAL •

Readers are, of course, by now familiar with the Save A Penguin Foundation. Some hundreds of penguins were rescued from their melting iceberg, and the homeless happily placed in walk-in refrigerators around the country. In this editor's view, an equally serious condition has arisen in Australia.

You have no doubt heard of the Koala bear, the saucer-eyed beings who spend their lives wrapped around trees eating nothing but eucalyptus leaves. This leaf leaves them somewhat bleary-eyed and toasted; which, to this editor, is, at least a reasonable state of affairs. The problem arises with the animals' penchant for falling out of the trees; which, you understand, is not "out" in the traditional sense, but "down". Now, far be it for this editor to become entangled in matters of nature or state, both of which are unmanageable, but it is up to Australia to (continued Pg.5)